Third-grade students at Southside Elementary learned Tuesday about where their food comes from, and conducted scientific experiments in the Kentucky Department of Agriculture's new Mobile Science Activity Center. The 44-foot-long trailer contains 11 iPads, a 70-inch LED monitor, and an all-in-one touchscreen desktop computer. The students were in Matt Coleman's class, and were being instructed by Agriculture Department Program Coordinator Matthew Hayes. The trailer was scheduled to be at Beattyville Elementary on Wednesday and Lee County Middle School on Thursday.

CCA loses investors

According to a Mother Jones article Tuesday, three corporations have pulled almost $60 million in investments from the Corrections Corporation of America (CCA) and the GEO Group, the two largest private prison companies in the country.

The reason for the pull the article states is because of pressure from the civil rights non-profit group Color of Change. It has been pushing companies since last year for companies to take such action.

Color of Change alleges that private prison companies stress profits over rehabilitation.

The Enterprise sent an email to CCA, which owns the Lee Adjustment Center, for a comment, but none was received by press time.

KY 1411 to be closed for bridge replacement

In order to replace a bridge, the Kentucky Department of Highways plans to close KY 1411 in Lee County from May 12-21. The road will be closed near mile marker 2, just north of the Paw Paw Road intersection. During this time, the road will be closed to all through traffic.

A signed detour will be posted using KY 11 and KY 30 through Booneville. Local traffic can also use Paw Paw Road, Dunigan Branch Road and KY 52 as an alternate route. Motorists should plan their trips accordingly.

In case of inclement weather, the project length and resulting road closure may be extended. If so, drivers can check for updates on the Department of Highways District 10's Facebook and Twitter pages. Search for "KYTC District 10" on Facebook and "@KYTCDistrict10" on Twitter.

Accused murderer to be in court Friday

The accused murderer of Martha Hollar is scheduled for a preliminary hearing this Friday at 10 a. m. in Lee District Court.

Judge William D. "Bo" Leach will hear from police if there is enough evidence against Melvin Greg Slone to send the case to the grand jury.

Slone, 55 of KY 52 West, was charged last Wednesday with the April 11 shooting death of Hollar in her Main Street mobile home. The home was then set ablaze.

He is being held in the Three Forks Regional Jail on $1 million bond.

This is the second time a murder charge has been lodged against Slone.

On May 9, 1980 he was convicted in Lee Circuit Court for the March 12, 1979 shooting death of Herman McIntosh.

He received a life sentence with the possibility of parole for that murder, along with 20 years for robbery in the first degree and 10 years for burglary in the first degree.

The site, Kentucky Online Offender Looking, does not show a parole date for Slone, but it does note that his supervision began April 2, 1012.

Kentucky State Police Trooper Robert Purdy, the public information officer for Post 7 in Richmond, was asked by the Enterprise Friday if any other people were suspected of possible involvement in the case.

He said the case is "an ongoing investigation," but refused to add any more details. He did ask that anyone with information in anyway connected to the case to contact state police at (859) 623-2404.

All candidates who face opposition in the May 20 primary are invited to a political debate/forum Friday, May 9, at the PEP building. It will begin at 6 p. m.

The Beattyville Enterprise is conducting the event, and asks that all candidates who plan to participate to call 606-464-2444 or send an email to beattyvill@bellsouth.net.

Questions will be asked by a moderator, but citizens in the audience may submit written questions to the moderator.

The public is invited.

The format will consist of a question to a candidate, who will have three minutes to respond. The other candidates will then have two minutes to respond to the original candidate's answer. That process will continue until all of the candidates for a particular office have had at least one question asked to them.

They will then be given three minutes each to summarize their views.

EPA wins, coal loses

The U. S. Supreme Court Tuesday upheld the Environmental Protection Agency's (E.P.A.) authority to regulate coal-plant pollution that crosses state lines, according to an article on Yahoo News.

The 6 to 2 ruling is considered a major blow to Kentucky politicians who have alleged that the EPA has been waging a "war on coal."

According to the article, "The agency argued that the rules were necessary to protect the health and environment of downwind states."

Affected electrical utilities and 15 states, including Kentucky, "argued that the rules, as written by the Obama administration's environmental regulators, gave the E.P.A. too much regulatory authority and placed an unfair economic burden on the polluting states.

"To comply with the regulations, electric utilities are expected to have to install costly pollution-control equipment on existing coal plants – or just shut them down."

The article concluded, "In June, the E.P.A. is expected to unveil a sweeping new climate change proposal, using the authority of the Clean Air Act to rein in carbon pollution from coal plants."

Athletic banquet to be June 2

The annual Kiwanis Athletic Banquet will be held Monday, June 2, according to Lee County High School Athletic Director David Lyons.

In an email Tuesday, Lyons said the banquet needed to be moved from June 3 to June 2 because of a scheduling conflict.

Other high school events coming up are: May 3 – bowling fundraiser, May 3 – prom, May 12

– baseball senior night, May 13 – softball senior night, May 15 – last home games for baseball and softball, May 19 – 56th District softball and baseball tournaments begin, May 22 – conservation banquet, May 29 – senior honors banquet, June 8 – high school graduation.

Graduation for eighth grade students is June 5.

Extension board to meet

The Lee County Extension District Board will meet on Thursday, May 1, at 5 p.m. at the Lee County Extension Service. Meetings of the Lee County Extension District Board are open to the public.

For additional information please contact the Lee County Extension Service at (606) 464-2759. Educational programs of Kentucky Cooperative Extension serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Editor’s Note: This response from Sen. Mitch McConnell concerns an article that appeared in last week’s Beattyville Enterprise. Before appearing at a luncheon at Happy Top, the senator was asked by the newspaper what he was going to do to bring jobs to Lee County. He responded that it is not his job to do that. He said that economic development is an issue for the state.

McConnell: Fighting for jobs and a stronger economy

By Sen. Mitch McConnell

As the senior senator for Kentucky, I’m constantly traveling across the Commonwealth to talk with constituents about how to expand opportunity in their communities. This April, I visited Lee County to talk about a top priority of mine: jobs.

Unfortunately, it seems my message got lost in translation, and I was surprised to see a headline about my visit that sent the exact opposite message to the one I was trying to convey.

So I appreciate the editor giving me a chance to restate my belief in the crucial role that state and federal governments can play in forming the conditions for job creation and greater economic opportunity. Encouraging positive economic development and job growth is at the center of what I do every day.

At the federal level, I vigorously support policies to try to improve the economy as a whole, which in turn will help preserve and create Kentucky jobs. These efforts include supporting an end to President Obama’s War on Coal. When I fight against the War on Coal, I’m standing up for Kentucky against job-killing, burdensome regulations that take aim at some of the most hard-hit communities in our state. Coal has blessed the Bluegrass State with jobs and economic opportunity, but the Obama Administration is trying to take that away.

I’ve also continued the fight against disastrous policies like Obamacare—a law that, among other things, costs jobs at local health care facilities. Notwithstanding the bill’s other failings, Obamacare must be repealed to encourage economic development.

Along with Senator Rand Paul, I am proud to sponsor the Economic Freedom

Zones Act, which would spur economic growth in areas such as eastern Kentucky. Our bill would roll back government regulations and tax barriers in order to spur job creation—and it would reform failed education systems in order to aid disadvantaged children.

Also in the Senate, I introduced a measure to implement a nationwide right-to-work law that would encourage stronger growth, job creation, and investment in every state—including Kentucky. I am also a strong proponent of expanding market access abroad for Kentucky’s manufactured goods and agricultural products, which will help protect and create jobs in the Commonwealth.

And of course, to the extent I’m able, I’m always working to steer more jobs to Kentucky in my role as the Senate’s Republican Leader. One of my proudest accomplishments was to secure the tobacco buyout of 2004, which is injecting over $3 million in payments to the tobacco farmers of Lee County to help them transition to the free market. I also helped secure a federal grant last year that is expected to bring 40 new manufacturing jobs to the area through an expansion of Phillips Diversified Manufacturing.

In my travels across the Commonwealth, I hear too often how government is blocking job creation. It’s up to all of us—at the federal, state, and local levels—to fix that. We must ensure that our utility and tax rates remain low and we must enact a right-to-work law. The better the atmosphere the state sets for job creators, the more effectively Kentucky can compete against other states to add and retain jobs.

Dear Editor

Dear Editor:
At a recent meeting at Happy Top, both Senator Mitch McConnell and Senate leader Robert Stivers indicated that coal severance funds – which enabled our county to fund large buys – are no longer available.

This brings us to the proposal to hire Matt Easter as county/city detective. It has been estimated that this venture would cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 - $70,000 salary, office, secretary, automobile, gasoline, and fringe benefits (retirement, insurance, etc.).

From newspaper articles, our current sheriff was willing to pay half the cost while the city would be responsible for the remainder.

However, in talking to Mayor John Smith recently, he feels that the current lack of funding would prohibit the city from engaging in this project at this time.

Thus, the only means of funding this currently would be a tax increase on all of us. Are you willing to do this???

Frankly, I agree with Mayor Smith who feels that local finances are limited now and projects would have to be closely screened.

What do you think?
Respectfully,
Norma Moore

Dear Editor:
Being a Republican I’ve always been a supporter of Mitch McConnell so naturally I went to the luncheon April 18 at Happy Top. I wasn’t expecting Robert Stivers, but he was there along with Steve Mays, John Smith, William Owens and Charles Beach, III.

Peoples Exchange Bank sponsored the luncheon (and I want to thank them for a pretty good TURKEY sandwich). I wonder how much it costs to put on something like that. Besides the cost of renting the room and providing the food do you have to make a Big campaign contribution to get people like Mitch McConnell and Robert Stivers to come?

I am new to politics, and I’ll admit pretty naïve about the games politicians play.

I was expecting a campaign speech like I’ve heard many times before. I didn’t hear anything I didn’t already know. There was no update on Washington or anything current or new.

State Senator Stivers said we’ve lost about 7,000 Kentucky coal jobs.

Senator McConnell said he’s still fighting against the “war on coal” and Obamacare.

Talk about naïve; I came away feeling like an idiot who had been manipulated into going to a luncheon for my competition where Mitch McConnell and Robert Stivers were the guest speakers.

So I contact one of McConnell’s office staff, and confirmed he was invited as a guest speaker.

I am insulted, but more than that I’m ticked off that everyone in that room was used to give the impression that they were there to support Steve Mays as judge/executive. I’m definitely not since I’m running against him. And my reasons for doing so keep piling up.

Senator McConnell and State Senator Stivers did confirm what Steve has said in fiscal court meetings for a while now. There is no more coal severance money, which makes me wonder who’s paying the $1.6 million for the downtown Peoples Exchange Bank building, plus the $800,000 cost of renovation.

We’ve already lost the $18,672 the bank paid in property tax, and guess who gets to make up that loss? We do in additional taxes.

We have county roads in bad shape, and I’m told cemetery roads that desperately need gravel. Yet we get a bank building we don’t need for a health department that’s not required to pay property tax, and from what I’ve heard is losing money due to Obamacare.

Whose idea was that?

It’s one thing for other people to think we’re a bunch of ignorant rednecks, but it’s something else when your own “leaders” act that way.

My fellow Lee Countians if we don’t change, next to that sign that claims this is the birthplace of the Kentucky River, we could have one that says, “Here lies Lee County, sucked dry and finished off by indifference.”

LEGISLATIVE UPDATE

By State Representative Toby Herald

Process Hampers Progress on Key Bills in Final Days of 2014 Regular Session

The House chamber is empty, and legislators have returned home following the end of the 2014 Session of the Kentucky General Assembly last Tuesday. In typical fashion, several important bills to move our Commonwealth forward died when we ended our work in the House at midnight on April 15th.

Two things we were successful in passing were a new two-year budget for Kentucky, and also funding for road construction projects in the Commonwealth. Prior sessions have been marked by our inability to do the only item spelled out in our constitution for lawmakers, which is approval of a biennial budget for the state.

While that was a success, the simple fact of passing a budget as required is no reason to celebrate. In fact I would say the 2014 Regular Session was marked more by missed opportunities than success stories.

First and foremost we did not tackle the lingering question of comprehensive tax reform in Kentucky. While we continue forward with an antiquated tax system for our people and our business community, border states like Tennessee and Indiana have revamped their tax code to grow their economies with more job creation, instead of raising taxes such as the push by House Democrats to increase Kentucky’s gas tax.

The session was also marred by the failure to pass additional pro-business bills such as the private-public partnership legislation that would have put us on par with 34 other states that utilize creative ideas in the private section to make government operate more efficiently with their tax dollars, right-to-work legislation that would have removed a key barrier in Kentucky’s efforts to recruit more industry and increase the number of jobs for our citizens, and a bill allowing you to have greater control over development projects in your cities and counties in the election booth through a local option sales tax.

Another key bill that died in the final hours of the 2014 Regular Session would have helped fight the growing scourge of heroin addiction in our Commonwealth. The Senate championed this bill, which they passed and sent to the House in January, yet House Democrat leadership allowed the legislation to languish until 20 minutes remained in the session before it was called up for a vote.

It is reasons like this as to why Kentucky continues to be at a competitive disadvantage while other states work to address issues that will provide a better quality of life for their people. The final hours of the final day of this session illustrated why the process in the Kentucky House of Representatives is flawed, and until the people of the Commonwealth decide that change is needed in the leadership of the House future sessions will continued to be marked by inaction due to partisan politics.

I welcome your comments and concerns on any issues impacting our Commonwealth. I can be reached through the toll-free message line in Frankfort at 1-800-372-7181, or you can contact me via e-mail at toby.herald@lrc.ky.gov. You can keep track of committee meetings and potential legislation through the Kentucky Legislature Home Page at www.lrc.ky.gov, and I also encourage you to follow the House Republican Caucus on Facebook and Twitter.

Attention Vietnam Veterans!

The War Memorial and Museum hope to join the county and city in a 40-year anniversary of the end of U.S. involvement in Vietnam by recognizing the service of surviving Lee Countians who served there in the U.S. Armed Forces.

The service will tentatively be scheduled as part of the Fourth of July activities at the amphitheater at the Happy Top Park prior to the fireworks this year.

To do honor to those who served there in the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force, we need the names of those of you who served.

Naval veterans patrolling off shore or contributing to bombing runs over North Vietnam are also eligible, as are veterans of Laos and Cambodia.

Those wishing to participate need to submit their names, branches of service, address, and phone numbers. Rank, medals, units, deployments and citations can be submitted for the recognition ceremonies.

A deadline of May 30 is necessary to complete the recognition package.

Contact The Beattyville Enterprise at P. O. Box 126, Beattyville, KY 41311 or beattyill@bellsouth.net if you wish to participate.

You may also contact the Three Forks Tradition in Beattyville.

A different view

By Betty Crabtree

There is a verse in Romans 8:28 that to me is so interesting. It reads thus in the New King James Version, “And we know that all things work together for good to those who love God, to those who are the called according to His purpose.”

In doing a word study I found that one of the meanings is “to be called by a name, to bear a name, the giving of attribution to someone or something.”

So a name is given. There are many other scriptures that attest to that.

And the word, purpose? It’s defined as a plan. II Timothy 1:9 says, “who saved us and called us with a holy calling, not according to our works, but according to His own purpose and grace which was given to us in Christ Jesus before time began.”

So we were called before time began.

Revelation 13:8 says, “All who dwell on the earth will worship him, whose names have not been written in the Book of Life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world. (The previous verses tell of the Beast, Dragon, who will wage war with the saints and try to overcome them, but focus on ‘name’ written in the Lamb’s Book of Life.)

Revelation 3:5 speaks of those who overcome, the uncompromisingly righteous, those in right standing with God.

Psalms 69:28. The Book of Life, Lambs Book of Life is God’s eternal record of the redeemed.

In Luke 10:20 Jesus told the seventy to not rejoice that the spirits were subject to them, but rather rejoice because your names are written in heaven. Where? In the Lamb’s Book of Life. When? From the foundation of the world.

(Isaiah 49:16 says, “The Lord called him from the womb, ...He has named me.)

Romans 8:29 says those He foreknew (of whom He was aware and loved beforehand, He also destined from the beginning...) Acts 17:28 tells us that “For in Him we live and move and have our being (exist). I wish I had more space, but let me summarize here if I can. Is everybody’s name written in the Lamb’s Book of Life from the foundation of the world? When are their names blotted out? When they choose not to accept the gift of salvation offered to all mankind through Jesus Christ and live clean, holy lives, the Redeemed are those only whose names remain.

What do you think?

MOTHERS DAY

What a mother should and should not be and do. “You painted no Madonnas on chapel walls in Rome. But with a touch diviner you lived in your home.” (T.W. Fessender)

(NOT) LEGALISTIC

I would like to use here my own mother for an example. She had high ideals and standards but somehow avoided being legalistic and judgmental. She was blessed with a great deal of wisdom, which helped make her a blessing to her family. She was very wise in handling moral and religious issues. This is so necessary in the bringing up of our children. “She openeth her mouth with wisdom; and in her tongue is the law of kindness.” (Proverbs 31:26)

NOT LAZY

Laziness is a thing far from this good mother. I believe mothers, and women in general, are blessed with extra energy. God knows they need it with all their responsibility and things they are called on to do. It is usual. “Let mom do it.” (Proverbs 31) “She is not afraid of the snow for her household; for all her household are clothed with scarlet.”

NOT LONESOME

I can’t believe that a mother could ever be lonesome with all her family around her. There is nothing like those “kids” to liven up the place. God certainly knew what he was doing when he created the family.

Thank God for those good mothers who went through more paid, and work, to give us those little ones that mean so much to our lives. They may take some time and attention, but it is well worth it.

Have a good and safe Mothers Day, and may God richly bless all our mothers.

Bevin, Grimes respond to McConnell's statement

U. S. Sen. Mitch McConnell's chief Republican and probable Democratic opponents this week responded to his comments on jobs that appeared in last week's Enterprise.

McConnell was in town on Friday, April 18, for a luncheon and a visit to Lee County High School.

Before the lunch, the Enterprise asked McConnell what he was going to do to bring jobs to Lee County.

He said it was not his job, but rather economic development was the responsibility of state government.

The senator issued a response to that article and it appears on Page 2 of this week's Enterprise.

Monday, Republican Matt Bevin said, "According to a report by the Beattyville Enterprise, McConnell said, "Economic development is a Frankfort issue. That is not my job. It is the primary responsibility of the state Commerce Cabinet

"Mitch McConnell's comments show that he does not understand how his big government Washington policies are hurting Kentucky's job climate, which hurts Kentucky families.

"Senator McConnell has never worked in the private sector, so he has no idea how to grow our economy and create jobs."

Also citing the Enterprise article, Kentucky Secretary

Alison Lundergan Grimes, a Democrat, said in a press release, "McConnell's utter neglect of his responsibilities as U. S. Senator is a sharp juxtaposition to Alison's forward-looking plan that will help put Kentuckians back to work in good-paying jobs.

She said her "number one priority is creating jobs.

Grimes said by raising the minimum wage to $10.10 an hour would create 2,200 jobs in Kentucky.

She also said she would work to invest in rebuilding roads and bridges.

Almost 4-H Camp time

The Lee County Extension Service is currently taking applications to attend 4-H Camp! This year we will attend 4-H Camp

July 28-31, 2014. Information and applications are available at the Lee County Extension Service. The Camp Fee is $170. Fundraising and scholarship opportunities are available.

4-H camps are open to all Kentucky youth between the ages of 9 and 14.

Many exciting activities and adventures await campers. 4-H'ers can spend their days participating in activities such as swimming, canoeing, high and low ropes, archery, recreation games, dances and nature hikes. These activities are a fun way to help young people learn new skills and develop a greater appreciation for the environment and wildlife. This year will be about working together to achieve greatness with our Olympic themed camp! Campers will compete in team events throughout the week to earn medals to see which team comes out on top at the final medal count!

Camper safety is a priority at 4-H Camp. All staff and volunteers are trained and undergo background checks prior to camp. Each camp will have an on-site emergency medical technician at all times to take care of campers' needs.

Call the Lee County Extension Service at (606) 464-2759 to reserve your slot!! Join in the fun!! Shaping Our Appalachian Region

A Wonderful plan with Faulty Execution

By Chuck Caudill Jr.

Last week saw the working part of the Shaping Our Appalachian Region (SOAR) initiative take off at the East Kentucky Leadership Conference in Somerset. The ten working groups met for the first time and people had a chance to comment on everything from Broadband to Tourism.

I sat in meetings for tourism, broadband and entrepreneurship and was very impressed with the people in attendance, the panels of experts and moderators. Each meeting was an open forum with everyone getting a chance to comment while a few college students recorded everything at the back of the room. By all appearances, the product of this meeting will get to the leadership for their action.

A key problem I had with the meetings was the Information getting back to the leadership will be pretty much the same things they've heard for years, because most of the attendees were folks who regularly attend these conferences. Not surprising since, at most, two weeks' notice was given the Working Groups were going to meet- during the work day- and in Somerset. This made it pretty difficult for your average mother or father, with a job, from almost anywhere other than Pulaski County, to make plans to be there. So, despite a wonderful and inspirational event, this conference did not meet the recommendation of the first conference ... "While many of the region's citizens were engaged in SOAR, most feel the dialogue needs to be deepened, taken to community and county discussions, and the participation broadened and made more inclusive, with greater participation from folks who cannot take a day off work, women, and minorities."

I understand the Area Development District (ADD) Directors have been included as Working Group members. That is more inclusive than the initial plan which didn't include them or County Officials in the discussion. The ADDs, county officials and school district leadership from across the region need to be included to build "regional frameworks that align urban and rural constituencies, geographies, and institutional alignments" which is quoted from the SOAR plan.

The SOAR plan asks three questions to determine if SOAR will be successful. They are: Will public sector champions stand up, not for the photo-op, but for the long haul? Will institutional innovators step up? Will constituencies arise to jointly support these leaders and these institutions?

Honestly, so far, the public sector champions seem more focused on photo ops, but the battle is still young. The institutions seem ready to listen and are engaging with some of the most impressive and energetic representatives you can imagine. The wild card here is you. As the constituency, you have to attend the meetings, in person or via the internet or even after the fact by reading the minutes and get your input to them. It will take effort on your part to find the time to attend and stay abreast of the issues, but you are the last, best hope for the future of our region. Everyone is invited to this party, so don't feel like your crashing it. We can carve a mutually beneficial future, but not if we wait and watch. To win, you've got to play. DIGITAL EYE STRAIN

A new survey reveals that 70 percent of users of desktop, laptop, TV, and cell phone screens report experiencing varying degrees of eye discomfort. Symptoms of "digital eye strain" include dry eye and blurry vision, and researchers also warn of long-term eye risks such as cataracts and macular degeneration. Much of the problem has to do with the fact that those staring at digital screens do not blink as much as they normally would. The proposed solution calls for screen users to concentrate on blinking every ten seconds and take breaks from screen use every 20 minutes. The online survey of over 7,000 adults revealed that 60% of respondents spent at least six hours staring at their screens daily.

Eye strain is, unfortunately, very common. For in-depth information about the most common or not so common eye problems, be sure to ask us at KENTUCKY EYE INSTITUTE. For more information or to schedule an appointment, call us at 606-666-9393. See your ophthalmologist if you experience eye infections or symptoms of disease like loss of or blurred vision, light flashes, eye pain, redness, itching, swelling and irritation around the eye or eyelid. We provide exceptional eye care for all members of your family. We're located at 540 Jett Drive. We specialize in "EYE CARE FOR ALL AGES."

P.S. To avoid digital eye strain, it is recommended that screen users turn down the intensity of their screens to the lowest comfortable setting.

RHS
30-Year
Fixed

The Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is accurate as of March 18, 2014. The APR and interest rate are based upon a variety of assumptions and conditions. RHS/USDA loans have location restrictions and income limits. The property loan approval and terms are dependent upon the specific characteristics of your loan transaction and your credit history up to the time of closing along with Peoples Exchange Bank underwriting criteria. No down payment is required for this type of loan; however, you may be required to pay closing costs and prepaid expenses at closing. Property must be located in an eligible area. Income limits apply to all members of the household and differ depending on the County. 100% financing is eligible for existing homes or construction. There is no requirement for "first-time" home buyer. No penalty for pre-payment. An example of repayment is 360 payments of $64.42 per $10,000 borrowed. The monthly payment amount displayed includes principal, interest, property taxes, homeowner's insurance and required USDA annual fee. The APR for this loan product reflects the interest rate and approximate cost of the prepaid finance charges, but does not include other closing costs or discount points.

ARCH JOHNSON, JR.
STATE REPRESENTATIVE

To those of you I haven’t had the chance to meet, I am a lifelong resident of this district. I graduated from Breathitt Co. High School and Morehead State University, was a teacher and coach in the Breathitt Co. and Wolf co. schools, a businessman, a county commissioner, and a lifelong farmer. As a result, I know from personal experience the challenges that our area faces. We need a long list of things here; the things I would concentrate on are what I see as the most urgent AND the most do-able. I think most of us are tired of pie-in-the-sky promises that have no hope of getting done. What I would work to get done first are these 4 things:

1.REHAB CENTERS – There are none in this district. The courts sentence people to go to rehab, but they wait months to get in. We’ have a big problem with drugs in our area – it has touched almost every family in some way, and we continue to lose people every week. Centers would also provide job opportunities for our people who staff them.

2.ECONOMY – Our coal industry has been hit hard, and as a backbone to our economy, deserves every ounce of support we can give it on the state level.

3.SMALL FARMERS – We need to increase markets for our farmers to sell their products to local and urban markets. Our farmers are able to grow anything, but without a predictable place to sell, they cannot prosper.

4.WELLNESS/REC CENTER –As our population ages, and our young people look for recreation, we need a community center to supply both needs. Pool, exercise gym, indoor walking track, basketball facility, the options could be decided on a local level.

I am asking for your vote and your support for State Representative, to move our district forward.
